

Engineering and Project
Management Consultants

requires a

Geomatics Consulting Associate

We provide design and project management services to government and major industrial development, specializing in remote locations.

We require an energetic teamworker with extensive remote site Geomatic survey experience to build our survey team, consult with clients and engineering associates, direct survey projects, and expand this area of our company's expertise.

If you want to chart new frontiers with a dynamic young company forward résumé and references to: