LAW OFFICES offer an

Articling Position

to a Bachelor of Law with significant training or experience in Environmental and International Trade Law

You must be an exceptional individual with the confidence to join us in building a brave new law practice by taking on banner cases—and winning them! When our clients are the underdogs we'll work for justice and glory, but we are already adding large pro-environmental corporations to our accounts. Our expertise in matters where environmental issues overlap with international trade concerns is becoming widely recognized and we are increasingly engaged as counsel to both government and industry in this area.

Do you want to practise law in order to make the world a better place? Do you have both the passion and the patience for lengthy, complex casework? Do you have outstanding communications skills?

If so, please forward your résumé, with references, to our office at 84 Dovercourt Close.

The successful applicant may be offered an associate position on completion of articles and full accreditation.
