

If this is you, the Fish and Wildlife Sector Competitiveness Secretariat is looking for a Program Coordinator to provide expert advice and leadership on the development and maintenance of the ministry's strategic business relationship with its' rivers and streams, as well as lead economic development projects, analyze and evaluate sector strategies and new proposals involving the Secretariat. You will also manage and liaison with stakeholders in the forest of business and monitor industry trends.

Qualifications: Experience working with management practices and principles with emphasis in areas of accounting, economics and financial analysis; advanced analytical and problem solving skills to analyze and evaluate strategies as well as research and make recommendations; ability to interpret and apply legislation, regulations and policies; demonstrated project management, organization and coordination skills to lead projects; strong negotiation and consensus building skills and ability to develop and maintain stakeholder relationships; proven communication skills including presentation and to prepare report and submissions; advanced computers skills in word processing, spreadsheets, databases and presentation programs.

Apply online