

Job Situation

Mostly behind the wheel with some office time. Can be fairly stressful

Weekly Hours of Work

37.5

Overtime

0

Monthly Salary

$2,200

Student Loan – Owing

0

Student Loan – Monthly Payment

0

Duties

Responsible for evaluating members of the public at various stages of the licensing process. Some of the tests that you will be responsible for conducting include vision tests and written motor vehicle tests.

Prospects

Driving Instructor. Professional driver

Job Title

Drive Test Examiner

National Occupational Classification (NOC)

4216

Job Description

You want to be able to give other people who love to drive the chance to do so. You now work for the Ministry of Transportation as a drive test examiner. Some people think your crazy getting into a vehicle with young adults that don't know how to drive but you think it's all in a days work. How bad could it be?

All these new drivers are nervous and scared but you reassure them that it's going to be okay and that if they do well they will pass. You are not out there to get them. You let them know exactly what will happen on the test and then check to make sure their car is working correctly. Lights! Signal! Brakes!

You start the test. Test sheet in hand you guide them through the test making notes on what they have done wrong and right. You ask them to parallel park and do a three point turn; which this one executes wonderfully. Now back in the parking lot your verdict is anticipated. This lucky kid has passed. You hand over the sheet to go get the new permit. You wish you could give it to everyone but it's just not the case.

You head inside and finish up some paper work and give a thumbs up to the kid you just passed who is doing a dance of victory. That test was easy; the kid knew the rules and had the skills, but some tests don't go as smoothly and your heart is in your throat the whole time. You get yourself ready for the next test. Putting a new testing sheet in your clipboard and taking a deep breath. At least this time you didn't hit anything.