

Job Situation

Office and public information sessions
sometimes in the evening or weekend

Weekly Hours of Work

40

Overtime

0

Monthly Salary

$4,200

Student Loan – Owing

0

Student Loan – Monthly Payment

0

Duties

Distribute information for the public.
Distribute training materials. Co-ordinate government programs. Promote sustainable development. Act as liaisons between groups.

Prospects

Public administration. Wholesale trade.
Marketing boards. Manufacture of agricultural products.

Job Title

Environmental Representative

National Occupational Classification (NOC)

4161

Job Description

Your job is to represent the environment because it cannot speak for itself. You help companies reduce the amount of waste and environmental hazards they produce. By helping these companies you help them save a lot of money and in return they help to save the planet.

Your day starts out with you providing posters for your newest client's office. They are environmental awareness posters. It is not just up to management to help the planet it is all the employees too. The first step to doing anything is to make people aware and that is just what you are there for. Next you meet with management to help create a plan on what kind of practices they could use to improve the plants sustainability. You talk about government regulation and help the company meet those guidelines.

You hold a meeting that any employee is welcome to attend. There you allow them to voice their opinions and concerns and you do your best to answer them. A challenge you face is introducing the different innovations to the employees. It takes a while for everyone to get into the swing of doing something a different way; and some just like the old way.

You often face the challenge of hitting a brick wall when it comes to your goals. Your staff always is impressed when you think up some way around the wall and continue to move forward to reach your goal. It is always worthwhile to know that you are out there doing your best to help your community and environment. You love to know that you are making a difference.